

How many inches do you need to please a woman?

BEWISEPROF.COM

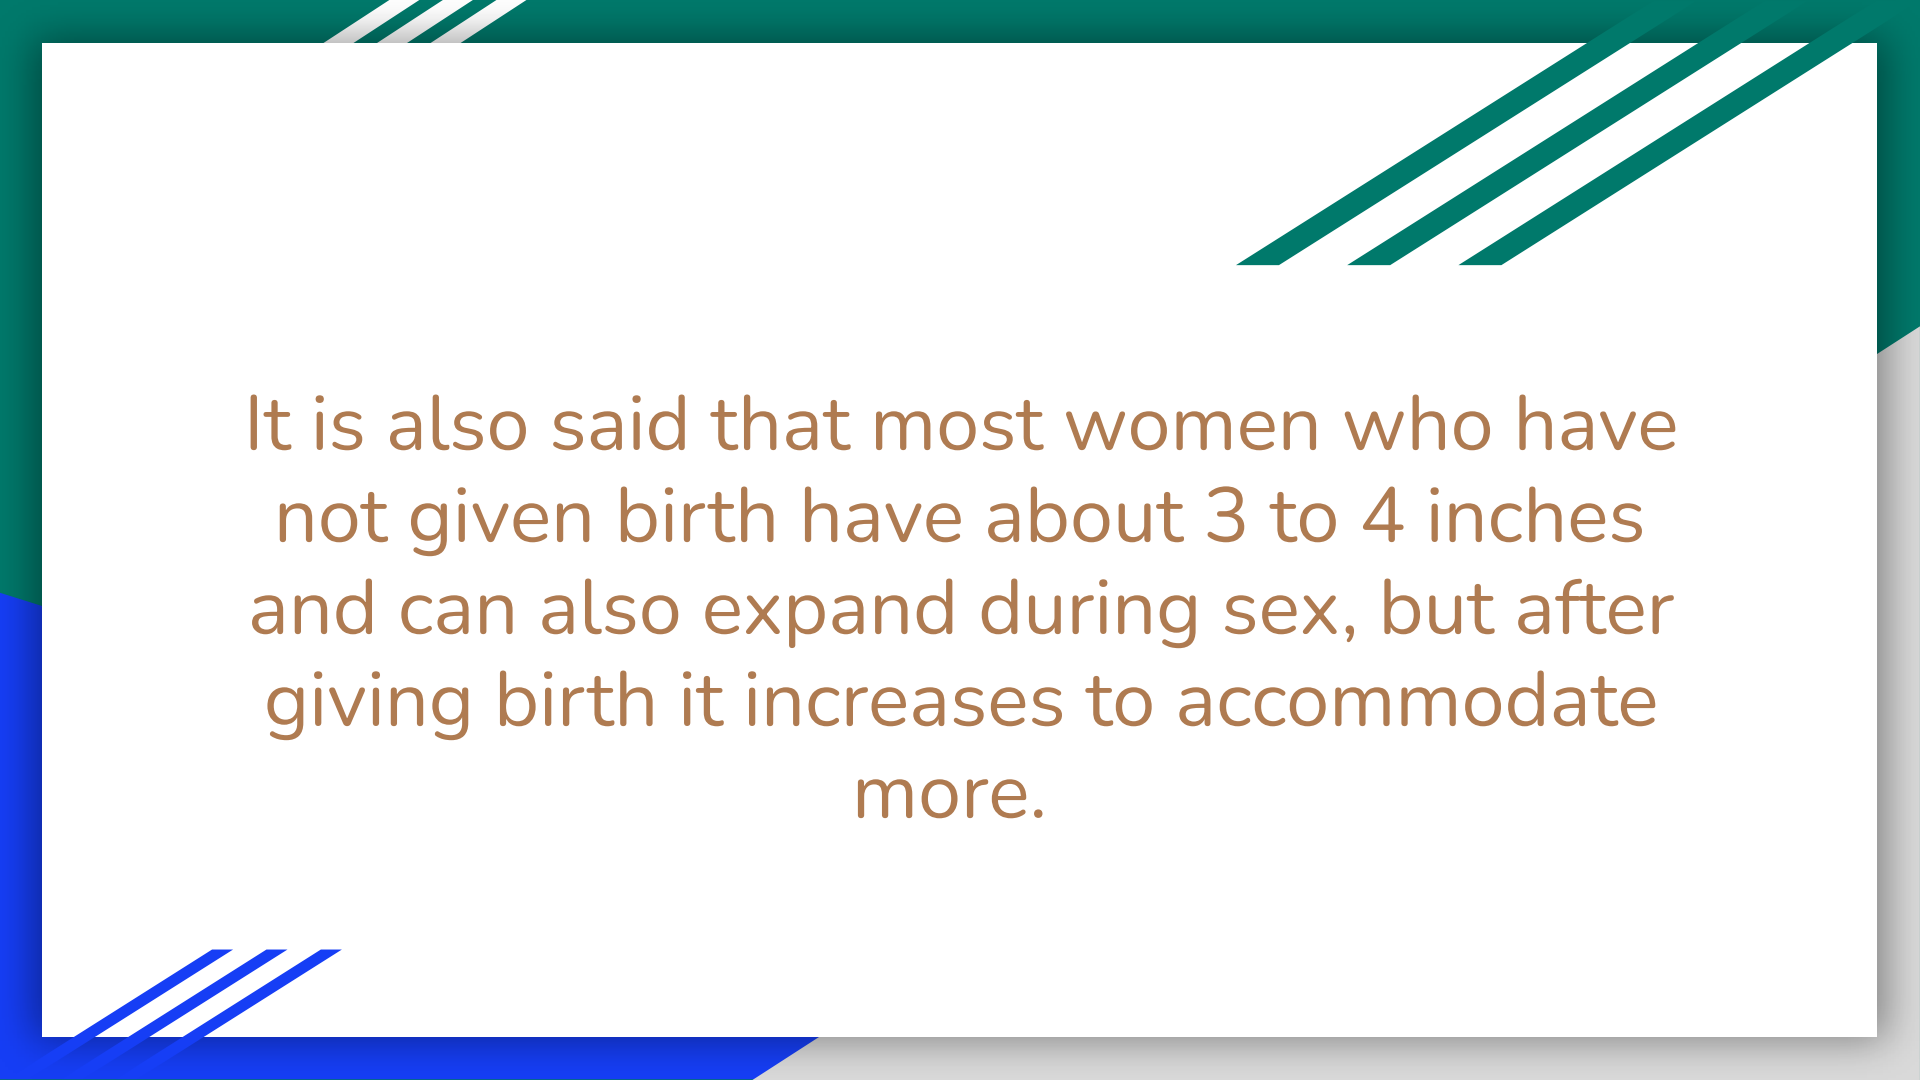

How many inches do you need to please a woman?

According to studies and research the depth of a vaginal is about 3 to 7 inches. By this I mean for an adult and not a child. Now on the question “How many inches can a woman feel?” the answer depends on the size of the vaginal, because during sex a woman vaginal is said to be expanded by 200%.

Although not all vaginal expand up to that,
but it is the highest of expansion of a woman vaginal during sex and can even expand more during child birth.

It is also said that most women who have not given birth have about 3 to 4 inches and can also expand during sex, but after giving birth it increases to accommodate more.

At first during sex a woman can feel about 6 to 8 inches but can accommodate more during sex or when fully aroused, because during that time her vaginal will expand both in length and in width making it to accommodate more .

With this I believe you have understood the answer to your question. Now over to you if you still have more knowledge or something else you feel that we will know on this, do let us know from the comment box so that others to can learn more on this topic.

Thanks for your time. Please visit our website bewiseprof.com to learn more about relationships
and marriage