What Comes After Kissing In A Relationship

More intimacy

Connection

Attraction

Love making

Commitment

More intimacy

This is possible because, after a first kiss, intimacy will begin. Reason is this, first kiss in a relationship marks the beginning of the friendship. It's not just a kiss but an agreement between you two that shows you have accepted to be in a relationship.

Connection

After a kiss comes a connection. Sometimes you can call it bond, reason is because, if you kiss with love, I mean kissing the right person, the person you have feelings for not just kissing anyone. Automatically, you will have connection with that person. You will love to remember how you kissed each other and what led to it.

Attraction

After a kiss comes attraction. Your love for each other will attract your mind together. That kissing as well will also contribute to it. You will be attracted to that person in a way that you will always want to see each other every minute of the day.

Love making

After a kiss, other things may follow which includes- hugging, romancing, cuddling and love making. Everything comes step by step at it's own time. But kissing is the beginning of it all especially in the life of those that love themselves. In a relationship where there's love, there will always be kissing and other way of expressing your love to each other. Whether by love making, by cuddling, by romancing or by foreplay. Anyhow you both chooses to handle it.

Commitment

In a relationship, if it happens that you have kissed and you find out that it's a nice experience which both of you enjoyed and love to continue. A total commitment will be built. Both if you will be commitment to each other. No one will like to be away from the other due to unending love that is building up in your relationship.
